- Let's kick off the day with a little reminder about something super important: ACCESSIBILITY! We're all about kindness and looking out for each other, right? So here are a few quick ways to make our school safer and easier to navigate for everyone: Elevators are for those who need them most! If your legs work just fine, take the stairs and leave the lifts for our friends who rely on them. It's like VIP parking—reserved for the right reasons! Hallway heroes unite! Keep those floors clear. Backpacks, water bottles, or random clutter? They're tripping hazards waiting to happen, especially for students with crutches or wheelchairs. Make way for wheels! When you see someone rolling or hobbling by, step aside. Think of it like a fast lane in a school hallway—help them cruise smoothly to class. Remember: a little effort from everyone means a whole lot of love and support for those who need it. So, let's be the school that rolls with kindness and stands up for accessibility!
